

Journal of Investigative Dermatology Editor Search

The Society for Investigative Dermatology (SID) in collaboration with the European Society for Dermatologic Research (ESDR) seeks candidates for the position of Editor for the Journal of Investigative Dermatology, a top-ranked journal in the field of dermatology, with an impact factor of 7.143 (2019).

The term for the Editor will be June 1, 2022 through May 31, 2027. Recent Editors have been in Geneva, Chapel Hill, Dallas, Boston, and St. Louis. Editorial operations have been centered in Chapel Hill since 2002.

The ideal candidate should be a dynamic, recognized investigator committed to the communication of scientific knowledge. The Editor will be responsible for selecting the content published in the JID and developing a strategic vision for the Journal, as well as recruiting an effective editorial board.

Manuscript submission, review, and production are accomplished through an online system that facilitates remote use and rapid review.

An ad hoc committee including both SID and ESDR members will review submitted proposals and interview candidates.

Interested individuals and those wishing to nominate colleagues should contact the SID Office for application requirements:

The Society for Investigative Dermatology
2022 JID Editor Search Committee
Attn: Rebecca Minnillo, DM/MPA
526 Superior Avenue, East, Suite 340
Cleveland, OH 44114 USA
Tel: 216-579-9300, ext. 305
Fax: 216-579-9333
Email: minnillo@sidnet.org

Applications are due 15 February 2021.

Mark C. Udey, MD/PhD, JID Editor, Barbara Gilchrest, MD, (past Editor), and Elizabeth Blalock, Managing Editor, welcome discussions with applicants. Contact Ms. Blalock at Blalock@sidnet.org to organize conversations.

Candidate Interviews: April 2021, by video meeting.